

Kudos For Pelican

Since its publication last fall The Pelican in the Desert—K&A's anthology of short stories about farm life—has received much interest and critical acclaim, including use as a text this spring in a University of Nebraska English class.

Two of the stories, David Kubicek's Ball of Fire and Marjorie Saiser's Settling In, have been nominated for Pushcart Prize XIV: Best of the Small Presses (1989-90 Edition). Both of the stories have received favorable reviews.

A review in Publisher's Weekly (Sept. 2, 1988) which gave favorable comments on several of the stories, including Dick Lane's title story: ". . . a humorous tale eloquently told by a farmer whose father turned to the Old Testament for guidance in withstanding the trials of Kansas farming."

well have been the case. This book, listed in Publisher's Weekly's survey of New Age books (Dec. 16, 1988), contains the complete translation of scrolls discovered in a Tibetan monastery at the close of the last century. The scrolls indicate that Jesus may have traveled with a caravan of merchants to India as a young man and there began his teaching. Includes Russian explorer Nicholas Notovitch's story of how he found the scrolls, evidence by India native Virchand R. Gandhi that supports this pilgrimage, and a special chapter on St. Thomas in India from the writings of A.E. Medlycott.

James F. Forcucci has spent many years researching the 18 years "about which the Evangelists are silent." The result is this compilation of selected writings, sprinkled with Forcucci's own objective commentary which helps clarify certain questions.

In the spring of 1990, K&A will publish Nanny Knowledge by Lynne E. Wittmuss and Mary P. Fleming, both of whom have worked for several years in the child care profession (including 5 years combined experience as nannies). The book, Wittmuss says, was written to provide information about the live-in child care profession and to aid people in their search for live-in child care positions. It will help them determine what they are looking for in a position, show them how to achieve their goal, and give advice on how to make a good working relationship with the families. Nanny Knowledge is a must for anyone who enters—or is thinking of entering—the live-in child care field.
